

Transitioning to Distance Education

Tips for Using Instructor Guides

Many of our textbooks come with Instructor Guides (IG).

At F.A. Davis, our textbooks may include a traditional IG and an Active Classroom Instructor Guide (ACIG), or, in the case of our books that feature Davis Advantage, an Implementation Guide.

- Instructor Guides often outline the specific resources available for your textbook. Get to know the resources. Visit publishers' websites; download the resources; and put them to use!
- F.A. Davis's Active Classroom Instructor Guides (ACIGs) provide a wealth of material, such as...
 - Lecture outlines mapped to PowerPoint Presentations
See Tips for using PowerPoints.
 - Activity suggestions, including instructions and hand-outs available for some titles
See Tips for using Activities and Prompts.
 - Discussion questions to encourage students to think and talk about key concepts and applications
See Tips for using Activities and Prompts.
 - Suggested Davis Edge assignments for each chapter, if applicable
See Tips for using Davis Edge.
- F.A. Davis's Implementation Guides provide maps to the rich online resources included with your title.
See Tips for Using Davis Advantage and Tips for Using Medical Language Lab.